DEDICATE NEW CHURCH

We are in receipt of a copy of the booklet prepared for the dedication of the new Second United Presbyterian church at Buffalo, N. Y., where Rev. Walter Hopping is pastor. The booklet gives a complete history of the church and is profusely illustrated with pictures of the exterior and interior of the building, building committee, members of the session and other officers, former pastors and of Rev. Hopping and wife with a roster of all members of the congregation and Sabbath School. The new structure cost $188,000 and is very imposing and the work Rev. Hopping is doing is evidently reflected in the support he has received for the new church house.

TREASURY BALANCE

Just after election a high official of the Democratic party in Ohio, speaking of the incoming administration of Governor-elect Davis, gave utterance to the sentiment that the new administration should start with good financial prospects "as it would have a balance of ten million dollars in the state treasury."

Even in defeat, the Democratic organization endeavors to deceive the people of Ohio as to the wretched condition in which its years of control leave the treasury of Ohio.

There are almost ten million dollars in the state treasury, but there are not ten million dollars in the funds from which state expenses are paid. There is a vast difference and one the outgoing administration wishes to conceal from the people of Ohio.

The state expenses are paid from the General Revenue fund. In this there is now a balance of scarcely a million dollars; it has been as low as four hundred thousand dollars within recent weeks. There have been days recently when transfers of funds from other accounts were necessary in order that the state might not default on its bills.

This is in striking contrast to the days when James M. Cox first became Governor of the state. He inherited a balance of over four million dollars in the General Revenue fund—the fund from which state expenses are paid. He will turn over to Mr. Davis a fund that will not cover the actual unpaid expenses incumbent against the state.

Governor Cox received a large balance; he will turn over to Governor Davis a fund that is bankrupt.

Of the nine millions in the state treasury on Saturday over seven were highway funds; they may be expended only for the construction of new roadways. From the general revenue funds must come the vast salary appropriations—trebled and more under Governor Cox—the appropriations for schools and all of the major running expenses of the state.

James M. Cox faced the roughest financial prospect in the history of Ohio. He has wasted the money of the state in riotous living, leaving to his successor the necessity of rescuing the state from actual and impending financial bankruptcy.

It is little wonder that the Democratic officials and press hounds want to talk about ten millions of a balance, failing to explain the facts their words contain.

SUPERSTITIONS

"Never trade horses with a man who whittles," said a shrewd horseman the other day. "If you do," went on the sage, "you will probably be imposed upon."

"This whittling habit of the American people is a curious thing. Who is there who doesn't find a quiet satisfaction in aimlessly slicing shavings off a soft pine stick? The boy takes to whittling from earliest infancy. To buy a boy a jack-knife is to make him happy as he can hope to be in this world. If I had a boy and he didn't try to carve the piano legs with his new knife, if he didn't scratch his initials on the mantle shelf, if he didn't cut, hack and mar the family furniture a dozen times a week, I should call in the doctor, for I don't believe such an unusually good boy could be healthy."

"But, as men are merely children of a larger growth, they cling to the propensities of the early days. Hence they often yield by tapping the table with their fingers. Hence they likewise whittle. The man who whittles is usually a thought man. There is something on his mind, and while the shavings are sliding away before the sharp blade of his knife, the mind is likewise playing havoc with some problem."

"Whittling is a mild stimulant, like a fine cigar, quieting the nerves and composing the mind. A man whittles for the same reason that a woman rattles the dishes more than necessary—to ease her mind."

"If you trade horses—or drivers—with a man who whittles, or who keeps on whittling while he is making the prospective bargain, who will come out at the short end? He will get the better of the trade every time."

At this point the quaint philosopher of whittling, mechanically pulled out his jack-knife and began aimlessly shaving away on a stray toothpick.

The United States Supreme Court has put a slight puncture in the prohibition enforcement act by allowing certain liquor moved from storage. However this will not effect "Home brew."

FORDSON

TRADE MARK

A Fordson Tractor on the farm means more prosperity for the farmer. It doesn't make any difference how you spell that prosperity—whether it is in increased production, whether it is in the saving that comes from a machine over a horse or a mule; whether it comes in a re-lease from the drudgery and all-day and all-night labor on the farm for both man and wife—because the Fordson answers all those problems to the satisfaction of the farmer.

It can't be otherwise. These are the days of progress, and power on the farm is the necessity. It is only a question of what kind of power on the farm is the necessity. It is only a question of what kind of power the farmer is going to have, but no farmer with the facts now before him can question the monetary advantage of machine power over horse and mule-power. The Tractor is the farmer's necessity just as much as the sun is the necessity for growing crops.

All that is necessary for a farmer is to know how his Fordson Tractor as familiarly as he understands handling a team of horses. He wants to use the same amount of reason and commonsense. In the Fordson Tractor is the concentrated power of eighteen horses, and as flexible as the movement of your arm—much more flexible than horse control—and beyond all comparison much more economical both in service and in keep. Then it will do so many things that horses and mules cannot do, and it doesn't eat when idle.

We don't believe there is any question in the mind of any farmer as to the necessity for a Tractor, but he may have some doubts as to what make of Tractor, so that is the reason we are putting this advertisement in this paper to draw his attention to the Fordson Tractor.

This is why we put the above arguments before him, and why we put the above arguments before him, and why we now invite him to come in to our place of business and view the Fordson Tractor. Let us show him what it has done. Let us prove to him its superiority over any other Tractor.

It means more to him than it does to us. When we sell a Tractor, we make a small profit, but when he buys a Tractor he buys a power that is working for him every day in the year; that is if he buys a Fordson—we can't speak for the other kinds. Come in!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY REV. F. C. LITZ, D. D.,
Teacher of the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago
(12:15 P. M. in School or Union)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 23

HOW JESUS THE KING WAS RE-CEIVED.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 11 and 12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Luke 11:
35; 10:1-11; 11:28, 29, 32.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Kind Deeds of Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Friends and Enemies
of Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
Choosing Jesus as Our Teacher.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
The Response of Men to the Ministry
of Jesus.

The teacher should keep in mind
the progress of thought in Matthew and present these lessons accordingly.
In chapters 5 to 7 we have the laws of the kingdom; chapters 8 and 9, the mighty works of Jesus; chapter 10, the King's ability to administer the affairs of the kingdom; chapter 11, the propagation of the kingdom through the sending forth of the twelve; chapters 11 and 12, how the kingdom was received.

1. Four Classes of Hearers (ch. 11).

1. Perplexed hearers like John the Baptist (11:2-11). John believed that Jesus was the Christ (v. 2), but was somewhat perplexed as to the manner of the establishment of the kingdom.
In the Old Testament prophets there were two lines in the Messianic prophecies: the one set forth Christ as the suffering one, as in Isaiah 53, and the other, as the invincible Conqueror, as in Isaiah 63. Indeed, in Isaiah 60:1, 2 we have the two advents in one view, see Matt. 24:29-31.
He said that the Son of Man will come in the clouds and that there was to be a separation of the wheat from the chaff and a burning of the chaff, but now the King was occupying merely with the opening of the eyes of the blind, etc. John saw Christ as the one who would remove the sins of the people by the shedding of his blood (John 1:29), but he failed to see the interval between the time of his sufferings and the time of his triumph.
Since this interval between the first and second comings—the nature of the age in which we live—was not known until Christ revealed it in the parables of the thirteenth chapter, we do not wonder at John's perplexity. John's faith was not failing him, neither did he send this deputation to Jesus for the sake of his disciples. He was a true prophet and a faithful man, but he was perplexed.

2. Violent hearers (11:12-19). These were willing to receive the kingdom according to their own way, but were unwilling to conform to its laws. Their ears were closed to everything but their own sensuality. They would not repent when called upon to repent by John, nor rejoice when called upon by Christ to rejoice (vv. 17-19).

3. The stout-hearted unbelievers (11:20-24). In Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum, Christ had done most of his mighty works, but the people deliberately set their hearts against him and his message. It was not for lack of knowledge and opportunity that they were unsaved, but for their purposeful rejection of Christ. They and Sodom, Gomorrah and Tyre were filled with immoral profligates and idolaters, but they will be more tolerably dealt with in the day of judgment than those who wilfully reject Christ.

4. Hearers who are babes in spirit (11:25-30). There were some among those who heard Jesus with childlike faith, who believed that Christ was the Messiah, and they opened their hearts to receive him. Christ invites those who have the babe-like spirit to come to him, and to all who come to him and receive him he gives rest.

11. The Antagonism of the Kingdom
(ch. 12).

In chapter 11 we saw the shameful indifference of the Jews to their King.
In this chapter we see positive and bitter antagonism manifesting itself against him. They are not only without a heart for him, but do their best to destroy him. The immediate occasion of their wicked determination was Christ's action in the Sabbath.
Because the hungry disciples plucked corn and Jesus healed the withered hand on the Sabbath day, they sought to destroy him. They accused him of being in league with the Devil. Jesus with unanswerable logic showed them that they had blasphemed against the Holy Ghost, and were therefore guilty of an unpardonable sin. They did not deny the miracle but sought to account for it without owning him as the Messiah.

What Tenderness Is.
Tenderness is the extreme susceptibility of the softer emotions and passions. It implies the refinement of the sensitive feeling of love, the culture of sympathy, and the most complete embodiment of a fervent, deep-seated, and impulsive gentleness.
—A. M. A. W.

Apply Discipline.
Restrain all the senses under the severity of discipline, and give the rhythm over to foolish mirth.—Phon-as a Kempt.

About Islands.
As a rule islands belong to the mainland near which they are located.
Guadalupe belongs to Mexico, that is the one off the coast of Mexico. Andros to the United States; Margarita, delong to Germany, and the peace conference will settle its administration. Fiji belongs to England. The Mabail and Caroline Islands also belonged to Germany. Marcus Island belongs to Japan. Fanning Island belonged to England.

PROMINENT FARMER DIED YESTERDAY OF PNEUMONIA

William Anderson Collins, son of James and Catherine Collins, died Thursday at his home after an illness of less than a week from double pneumonia.

The deceased was a man of unusual physical strength and had had but little or no sickness throughout life yet at his age he was unable to combat the disease.

The deceased was born November 25, 1856 and at the time of his death was aged 70 years, 9 months, and 10 days. About thirty years ago he was married to Miss Ada McMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. McMillan, who survive. Besides the widow he is survived by one brother, Hale Collins of Santa Ana, Cal., and one sister, Mrs. Lydia Turner of Americus, Kan.

Mr. Collins was one of Cedarville township's prominent and favorably known citizens. He was a member of the Reformed Presbyterian church and one who always gave his support towards religious and community betterment. Most of his life he lived on his farm in the immediate neighborhood of his present home.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 1:30 from the residence, the services to be in charge of his pastor, Rev. Harriman. Burial will take place at Woodlawn cemetery at Xenia.

JOLLEY-FARIS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last Saturday evening at five o'clock when Miss Ida, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Faris was united in marriage to Mr. A. E. Jolly. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. R. S. McElhinney in the presence of twenty relatives and guests. Following the ceremony a three course supper was served. The out of town guests were Mr. Floyd Faris, wife and two daughters of Dayton, Mrs. Ed Faris and granddaughter, Elizabeth Speer of Cleveland. The bride was married in a brown traveling suit. The bride and groom left that evening on a wedding trip to Cleveland and Detroit, expecting to be gone about a week. On their return they will go to housekeeping in Mrs. J. M. Lott's property. Mr. Jolly is a member of the firm operating the Cedarville Bakery. His bride is a popular young lady that has many friends who extend congratulations.

Chilean Traffic Rules.

There are no road rules nor speed limits in Chile outside of the cities, but the speed limit in the cities is 20 kilometers (12 1/2 miles) an hour. In the traffic rules of the various Chilean cities there is a lack of uniformity. The Valparaiso regulations requiring an automobile to pass to the right of a coming car, while in Santiago it must pass to the left.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our kind friends and neighbors for the beautiful flowers, and kind words of sympathy. Also Revs. Busler and Harriman for their consoling words in our sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thordson.

GILBERT BECOMES MAYOR.

Charles F. Gilbert, formerly of this place, who has resided in South Charleston for a number of years, has been chosen as mayor to succeed P. C. Tyler and will serve the unexpired term of three years. Mr. Tyler has been cashier of the Houston Bank but resigned some months ago. Mr. Gilbert stands at the top as one of South Charleston's leading business men and citizens. He has been quite successful in business and has proved a considerable fortune. He will prove the right man for the head of the municipal government.

China's Canal System.

From the Himalayan mountains eastward to the present Pacific coast, a distance of more than 1,500 miles, the country was formed by successive elevations of vast mountain chains. The valleys intervening between these ranges contained rich alluvial soil, well suited for the raising of immense crops for the sustenance of man and beast. Added to this is the great plain stretching from the Yangtze river northward to the great China wall. This is a vast prairie formed by the loss that came drifting down from the deserts of the north. This plain is intersected by numerous canals, most important of which is the Grand canal. This network of canals has for untold ages furnished people with the mode of transportation, and also water supply for the irrigation of the land.

Crossing the Sutley.

To cross the Sutley river, in India, you would have to do one of two things, swim across or ride on an Indian ferry. If you chose the latter you would probably experience something new in ferries, for you either sit or lie across the back of a native, who in turn is lying across an inflated, bullock skin, with his legs trailing behind in the water. The ferrying it up through a hole in one of the logs, after you have clambered on to the shore, kicking strongly, and your ferry trip is begun. It's up to you to see that it ends successfully, for the slightest shifting of position en route would most likely end disastrously.

Nutmeg Once a Perfume.

In olden times the ladies in England used nutmegs as a perfume. The nutmegs were set in silver and ornamented with pearl and precious stones, and hung from a lady's belt like a modern scent-bottle.

Pays to Give One's Best.

There is a great difference between going just right and a little wrong—between superiority and mediocrity—between the fairly good and the best. And there is something in the determination always to keep up the standards in thought, or in whatever we do in life, whether it is hoeing corn, mending shoes, or making laws for a nation—something that gives an upward tendency—an inspiring quality—that is lacking in the character of the groveling man with low ideals. There is, in the upward struggle involved in giving one's best to what one is doing, something that enlists and develops the highest faculties and calls out the truest and noblest qualities.—Orison Sweet Marden, in Chicago, News.

Don't Do It.

It is bad manners and bad business etiquette for two employees of the same office to discuss the personal affairs of fellow workers or of their employer. Almost every worker is in possession of some private information as a result of his work, but that should be regarded as a trust not to be betrayed. It is also bad manners to inquire as to the wages or the particular duties of fellow workmen.—Biddy Bye.

Odd Standards of Time.

Some of the Mohammedan tribes of India and of the Indo-Malayan peninsula, who are addicted to chewing the betel leaf, use that as an indication of the passing of time. The leaf, prepared with a dab of lime and a sprinkling of spices, takes about 20 minutes to chew to a pulp. And this is taken as a standard of the time by them. But one of the strangest methods of telling time is used sometimes by the Malays, who measure time by the drying of the wet hair on a man's head.

EAST, WEST, HOME'S BEST

It has been said that The Youth's Companion has had more readers per copy than any other publication in America. There is good reason to believe this to be true. But the important thing is that the influence of the paper upon its millions of readers has always been directed to building character. "Best, west, home's best" has been its mottoed slogan. In its articles, editorial and otherwise, it has dwelt upon the importance of good citizenship. In all its contents it has aimed to give not only entertainment, but "steppingstones to higher things." A year of The Youth's Companion brings a tremendous tide of delight and diversified reading that cannot be found elsewhere.

THEATRICAL NOTES

"Aphrodite", a romance of Ancient Egypt, presented on a scale of great magnificence by F. Ray Consettack and Morris Geat, with a cast of 300 people, presented to the season of the year in Dayton, just as it was recently in Chicago, and last winter in New York, when it comes to the New Victory Theatre for one week beginning Sunday night, December 5th.

"Aphrodite" is a gorgeous and brilliant staging on a massive scale of one of the most celebrated romances known to modern fiction. The original story by Pierre Loti, a Frenchman, was a sensation. Various versions, in English (much subdued, have been printed for private circulation, but the story remained chiefly in libraries until Pierre Loti made the dramatic version which was such a sensation in Paris that Mary Garden afterwards appeared in it in Grand Opera. Then George C. Hazelton was engaged by Morris Geat, who bought the American rights, to adapt the play for the American stage.

It was produced last December in New York and was the biggest theatrical sensation known in a generation. Now the original company and mammoth production consisting of ten stage pictures of gorgeous splendor will be brought to Dayton intact.

"Aphrodite" is partly historical and partly fiction. The two historical characters are Demetrios, a sculptor whose mutilated statue of Aphrodite still is exhibited as one of the prizes of the Louvre in Paris; and Berenike, Queen of Egypt, at the period of the novel, 68 B. C. Demetrios is loved by Berenike, but he repulses her advances because of his pure love for his statue of Aphrodite, only to fall a victim to the wiles of Chrysis, a courtesan of Alexandria, and the most notorious of women from the Temple of Aphrodite.

Mail orders for "Aphrodite" are now being received at the New Victory Theatre where in order to protect the public from unscrupulous speculators following the attraction from city to city and who in New York last winter, charged as high as $200 a seat, the number of tickets allowed each person must be limited to six unless satisfactory credentials are shown.

"Aphrodite" represents an outlay of between $250,000 and $300,000 to its producers and has been produced on a scale of magnificence never before attempted in any theatre in the world.

A TOUCHING INCIDENT

Some very touching incidents happen in our cemetery, not only while the coffin is being lowered, but later on one can see the reaction, when time should have worn off the feelings of a great loss.

Not long ago the writer was out there and while gazing over the grounds a boy came in, holding in one hand a generous bouquet of wild flowers. It was not as handsome as are generally taken out there, but it looked far better than the finest could in the hands of the prettiest girl on the earth. The peculiar effect came from the boy. Ragged and freckled, and a general make-up that denoted Nature's boy; his eyes full of expression of the better qualities of man. While he had left his companions in play to come alone to the cemetery it would seem that he was undergoing a sacrifice; but he did it, and as he entered the grounds the expression on his face changed to that of one in grief.

We watched and followed him to the grave where he arranged his natural treasure—first cleaning off the rubbish left from former bouquets of the same character, then he sat on the grave and the large round tears that forced themselves through his kind eyes were wiped on the rough sleeve of his coat.

As we drew near he looked up without trying to hide his tears. We knew the lad and had not heard of any bereavement in his home circle, and the question came naturally as to who was the subject of his sorrow.

"It's my grandmother, and she died more than three years ago," he said, "and I come here as often as I can and bring her fresh flowers. She always liked them, very much, and she was always very good to me."

Could the old lady only see this devotion to her memory, all the trouble such a boy generally is to a grandmother would be overshadowed at once. Yes, it pays to be kind to anyone, but the kindness of this old lady has brought its full return, although she never knew how that boy loved her.

CONTROL OF SOIL DISEASES

Next to Seed Treatment Rotation is Best Way to Destroy Wilt and Root Spores.

With the possible exception of seed treatment, there is no farm practice which, from the plant disease point of view, gives greater returns on the investment than crop rotation. It is the assertion of Prof. J. G. Leach of the Colorado Agricultural College. There are a great many plant diseases such as wilts and root rots for which no specific remedy is known and which can be held in check only by the combined practices of seed selection, seed treatment and crop rotation. These diseases become worse and worse each year the crop is grown in the same soil, and each one taking their annual toll accounts for considerable loss to the farmer.

A system of crop rotation entails almost no expense other than a little forethought and planning. The returns in disease-free crops pay for this trouble many times over, not to speak of the added gain in soil fertility.

SILOS RAPIDLY INCREASING

Successful Farmers Have Learned That Huge Receipts in Big Asset on Any Farm.

Information gathered by the Pennsylvania department of agriculture shows approximately 20 per cent, or 43,657 farmers in the state with silos, while the number a year ago was estimated at 32,300. With a wide awake and successful farmers have learned that a silo, when properly used is a valuable asset on any farm. As farm conditions improve, the number of silos naturally increases.

SPACE BETWEEN FRUIT TREES

Apples Should Be Allowed at Least 30 Feet Each—Plums Do Not Require as Much.

Standard apple trees should be allowed at least 30 feet of space each way; plums 20 feet; currants, gooseberries and grapes from ten to 12 feet; red raspberries should be allowed to grow only in hedgerow not over six inches wide and rows ten to 12 feet apart; strawberries set in rows four feet apart and two feet apart in row.
